Last Sunday after the last Mass a large number of the parishioners had assembled at the parish church of Ste. Genevieve for the purpose of securing seats for the next five years, as the pews were auctioned off to the highest bidder. While some pews were secured by only one bid, there was some lively bidding for others. When the auction was over there were only a few pews left, some of which were sold since, so that by the end of the week practically every seat will be taken. While a number of families have moved away since the pews were last sold, some others have moved in, and a large percentage of the young married couples have settled in the parish. The church easily seats 1,000 people and is thus able to satisfy all reasonable demands for seating.
